AFK AK-Empirical Methods in Peace and Conflict Research – Autumn Workshop –

New qualitative and quantitative data in peace and conflict research

13-14 September 2018

GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies

We are pleased to announce that this year's AFK AK-Empirical Methods in Peace and Conflict Research workshop will be held at the GIGA German Institute of Global and Area Studies in Hamburg. The workshop will take place on 13-14 September 2018.

The topic of this year's workshop is "New qualitative and quantitative data in peace and conflict research." The goals of the workshop are:

- 1) Reflecting on the challenges of gathering qualitative and quantitative data for research on peace and conflict;
- 2) Discussing new and innovative sources of data for peace and conflict research such as, archival data, ethnographic data or satellite data;
- 3) Developing best-practice approaches in collecting and integrating qualitative and quantitative data sources to study local and global phenomena related to peace and conflict.

We welcome submissions that explicitly address the aforementioned goals of qualitative and quantitative data collection. We are also interested in qualitative and quantitative papers that conduct theory-guided empirical peace and conflict research. In presenting such papers (in English or German), we expect, however, that attention will be devoted to the challenges related to the process of data collection for the research question at hand.

Submission deadline for abstracts: 1 May 2018.

Please submit your abstract (max. 250 words) via the website:

Accommodation

Participants are expected to make their own travel and accommodation arrangements. Please contact us if a list of hotels or assistance is required.

Funding

Depending on a successful funding application, we might be able to cover the participation fee of €20.

We are looking forward to your abstracts!

Best regards,

Christian von Soest, Felix Haaß, Adam Scharpf
